The Washington State Centennial Commissiion established Pacific Celebration '89 to lead the state in looking forward to the next hundred years, and Washington State's role in the Pacific community. It will focus attention on the cultural and economic ties between Washington State and communities. Activities planned for 1989 will include friendship tours, forums, exhibitions, trade meetings, arts festivals and sporting events.

"Washington State is uniquely positioned to increase both trade and cultural exchanges with nations of the Pacific," observes Edwards. "Our centennial marks the perfect occasion to invite our Pacific neighbors to visit Washington, and share a look into our joint futures."

"This will be a people-to-people celebration," Passage states. "Our goal is to involve every sector of the state both geographically and organizationally, to bring together government, business, service clubs, trade associations, and youth groups with the common goal of building closer ties with our Pacific Rim neighbors.

Edwards has been the acting executive vice president of Pacific Celebration '89 as a loaned executive from Pacific First Federal Savings Bank since October, 1985. Prior to joining Pacific Celebration '89, he spent thirteen years in the banking arena, specilizing in corporate lending to Fortune 500 companies for business development opportunities. Prior to joining Pacific Celebration '89, Passage was assistant to the V.P. of operations for Accountants Microsystems, Inc. (AMI), a software company in Bellevue, Washington. Previously she founded her own business, SETTLERS, Inc., a relocation information service used by Puget Sound corporations. President Botha Sanctions Raids On Black South Africa

JOHANNESBURGE, - President P.W. Botha today congratulated the roops who carried out raids into Botswana, Zambia and Zimbabwe and said he took full responsibility for their actions.

His statement to the White House of the nation's segregated Parliament in Cape Town came amid mounting bloodshed in his country's black townships and a sharp fall in the value of the rand, its currency. The rand's drop was apparently prompted by fears of international sanctions because of the raids on the three neighboring black-governed nations.

In continued violence, at least 22 black people were reported slain in recent days around the country in violence between anti-apartheid blacks and more conservative black groups.

The worst violence was in the Crossroads squatter camp near Cape Town, which has been gripped by factional strife since May 18. Thousands have been left homeless, and at least 16 people have died in battles between radicals and conservatives, who have set fire to one another's homes and fought with sticks, clubs, knives and firearms.

Six Bodies Found Near Durban

In Durban's KwaMashu township, the police said they found six bodies, some of which had been incinerated with gasoline.

Residents of the township said the dead were conservatives who had been trying to end a schools boycott enforced by a radical group.

"I take full responsibility for the actions of our security forces," President Botha said of the raids against Zimbabwe, Zambia and Botswana. "I congratulate them." However, he refrained from warning of further raids by omitting a passage in the prepared text of his speech saying Pretoria would do the same again if necessary.

South African Army and Air Force units struck at what the authorities said were facilities used by the African National Congress in the capitals of Botswana, Zambia and Zimbabwe. Three people were reported killed, none of them South African.

The Congress is the best-known and most active of guerrilla organizations seeking the overthrow of white rule in South Africa. It was declared illegal in 1960 and has operated from exile since then.

Arms Sales

WASHINGTON, - The Reagan Administration, seeking to avert a major legislative defeat over a proposed $354 million arms sale to Saudi Arabia, said today that it would no longer ask for the sale of 800 advanced portable antiaircraft missiles.

Under the revised White House plan, Saudi Arabia would still get air-to-air missiles and ship-to-ship missiles.

Although White House officials maintained that the decision to drop the shoulder-fired Stinger missiles had been made by Saudi Arabia, the Saudi Ambassador, Prince Bandar bin Sultan, made it plain that his nation was unhappy about the move and might seek similar weapons elsewhere.

Saudis Making Other Plans

"The basic point I'd like to get across is that the kingdom, as a matter of principle, will provide its armed forces with up-to-date and the most modern defensive weapons systems," Prince Bandar said. Asked if that meant Saudi Arabia would seek weapons elsewhere, the envoy replied, "From there on, you can draw your own conclusions."

The envoy made the comments at the White House after a meeting with the national security adviser, Vice Adm. John M. Poindexter. As he spoke, about a dozen representatives of jewish groups began arriving at the White House for a

Words Of Wisdom

WHO HATH BELIEVED OUR REPORT? AND TO WHOM IS THE ARM OF THE LORD REVEALED?

FOR HE SHALL GROW UP BEFORE HIM AS A ROOT OUT OF THE GROUND.

HE HATH NO FORM OR COMILINESS: AND WHEN WE SHALL SEE HIM, THERE IS NO BEAUTY THAT WE SHOULD DESIRE HIM

PROVERBS 30:1- 29

The words of Agur the son of Jakeh, even the prophecy: the man spake unto Ithiel, even unto Ithiel and Ucal,

Surely I am more brutish than any man, and have not the understanding of a man.

I neither learned wisdom, nor have the knowledge of the holy.

Who hath ascended up into heaven, or descended? who hath gathered the wind in his fists? who hath bound the waters in a garment? who hath established all the ends of the earth? what is his name, and what is his son's name, if thou canst tell?

Every word of God is pure: he is a shield unto them that put their trust in him.

Add thou not unto his words, lest he reprove thee, and thou be found a liar.

Two things have I required of thee; deny me them not before I die:

Remove far from me vanity and lies: give me neither poverty nor riches; feed me with food convenient for me:

Lest I be full, and deny thee, and say, Who is the Lord? or lest I be poor, and steal, and take the name of my God in vain.

Accuse not a servant unto his master, lest he curse thee, and thou be found guilty.

There is a generation that curseth their father, and doth not bless their mother.

There is a generation that are pure in their own eyes, and yet is not washed from their filthiness.

There is a generation, O how lofty are their eyes! and their eyelids are lifted up.

There is a generation, whose teeth are as swords, and their jaw teeth as knives, to devour the poor from off the earth, and the needy from among men.

The horseleach hath two daughters, crying, Give, give. There are three things that are never satisfied, yea, four things say not, It is enough:

The grave; and the barren womb; the earth that is not full with water; and the fire that saith not, It is enough.

The eye that mocketh at his father, and despiseth to obey his mother, the ravens of the valley shall pick it out, and the young eagles shall eat it.

There be three things which are too wonderful for me, yea, four which I know not:

The way of an eagle in the air; the way of a serpent upon a rock; the way of a ship in the midst of the sea; and the way of a man with a maid.

Such is the way of an adulterous woman; she eateth, and wipeth her mouth, and saith, I have done no wickedness.

For three things the earth is disquieted, and for four which it cannot bear:

For a servant when he reigneth; and a fool when he is filled with meat;

For an odious woman when she is married; and an handmaid that is heir to her mistress.

There be four things which are little upon the earth, bu they are exceeding wise:

The ants are a people not strong, yet they prepare their meat in the summer;

The conies are but a feeble folk, yet make they their houses in the rocks;

The locusts have no king, yet go they forth all of them by bans;

The spider taketh hold with her hands, and is in kings' palaces.

There be three things which go well, yea, four are comely in going:

A lion which is strongest among beasts, and turneth not away for any;

THE DOCTORS PRESCRIPTION

Forgiveness

Bitterness is a big burden for any person to carry. I have met many people who are unhappy, unproductive and unfulfilled because they are loaded with deep resentment and anger toward people or circumstances in their lives. The only solution to the problem of bitterness is a forgiving spirit. If we are to experience true joy and a productive and fulfilling life, there are three areas where we must experience and practice forgiveness.

We Need Forgiveness From God

I wish that everyone who reads "Dr Prescription" has had a personal experience with God, and have placed their faith and trust in Him, and have experienced forgiveness from sin. How can one truly be happy when he has not had his sin forgiven? We read in Romans 4:7:

"Blessed are they whose iniquities are forgiven, and whose sins are covered."

Have you been forgiven? Not only do we need forgiveness from God in order that our relationship with our heavenly Father is not damaged.

You do not have to wait until your church revival to get right with God. 1 John 1:9 tells us:

"If we confess our sins, he is faithful and just to forgive us our sins, and to cleanse us from all unrighteousness."

Is your relationship with your heavenly Father right because you daily judge yourself and confess your sin to Him?

We Need to Forgive Others

One does not live long on planet Earth without experiencing some hurt by some loved or trusted one. It is then that we must practice Ephesians 4:30-32:

"And grieve not the holy Spirit of God, whereby ye are sealed unto the day of redemption. Let all bitterness, and wrath, and anger, and clamour, and evil speaking, be put away from you, with all malice: And be ye kind one to another, tenderhearted, forgiving one another, even as God for Christ's sake hath forgiven you."

It is only when we practice forgiveness that we experience true freedom and joy.

Have you forgiven those who may have wronged you?

We Need to Forgive Ourselves

I suppose the most difficult area regarding forgiveness is learning to forgive yourself. Countless people have promised the Lord during various invitations that they were going to serve Him and walk daily with Him, only to discover that however well meant their intentions were, they found out also how weak and frail they are. Find comfort in Psalms 103:14:

"For he knoweth our frame; he remembereth that we are dust."

A person will not be saved long before he finds out that the Devil will use his memory to defeat him spiritually and stop his service for the Lord. The Devil will remind us of our past sins and challenge us as to our right to speak for Christ with such a past as we may have In those times of attack from Satan we must practice Philippians 3:13,14:

"Brethren, I count not myself to have apprehended: but this one thing I do, forgetting those things which are behind, and reaching forth unto those things which are before, I press toward the mark for the prize of the high calling of God in Christ Jesus.

We all have a past. The important thing is to put it under the blood through forgiviness. Learn to forgive yourself and get on with your life!

HAVE YOU FORGIVEN YOURSELF?

ST. JOHN 5:1-23

Then answered Jesus and said unto them, Verily, verily, I say unto you, The Son can do nothing of himself, but what he seeth the Father do: for what things soever hs doeth, these also doeth the Son likewise.

For the Father loveth the Son, and sheweth him all things that himself doeth: and he will shew him greater works than these, that ye may marvel.

For as the Father raiseth up the dead, and quickeneth them; even so the Son quickenth whom he will.

For the Father judgeth no man, but hath committed all judgment unto the Son.

That all men should honour the Son, even as they honour the Father. He that honoureth not the Son honoureth not the Father which hath sent him.

Verily, verily, I say unto you, He that heareth my word, and believeth on him that sent me, hath everlasting life, and shall not come into condemnation; but is passed from death unto life.

Verily, verily, I say unto you, The hour is coming, and now is, when the dead shall hear the voice of the Son of God: and they that hear shall live.

For as the Father hath life in himself; so hath he given to the Son to have life in himself;

And hath given him authority to execute judgement also, because he is the Son of man.

Sacramento Community Choir In Concert At Shilo Church

The Hosanna Community Choir proudly presents the Sacramento Community Choir under the direction of Clarence Eggelton. This non-profit interdenominational group is made up of members from the various churches through the Sacremento area.

The choir's objectives remains constant:

* To share ministry in song with everyone-everywhere
* To bring others to Christ
* To promote gospel music as an art form.

The majority of the material which the choir performs is written/arranged by Clarence Eggelton. Clarence has writen well over a hundred songs, most of which have been recorded by the choir, The National Gospel Music Workshop of America Mass Choir and many other groups and choirs.

Clarence and the SCC have many awards throughout the U.S. and Canada. Their album "SCC LIVE", released on ONYX-International Records, has been charted on billboard and Cash Box magazines and was among the top 25 albums to be considered for a grammy nomination. The choir has appeared on several television shows and has travelled extensively throughout the U.S. and Canada. They have made many accomplishments, but none as great as winning souls for Christ.

SCC will be appearing in full concert at Shiloh Baptist Church on Saturday, May 24, 1986 at 7:30 p.m. along with Hosanna & special guest soloist Willis Devone. Shiloh is located at 1211 South "I" St. in Tacoma.

Hypocrisy Murder And Greed

Before blacks start choosing sides in the bombing of Libya and related terrorist activities, a closer examination is neccessary. The facts may lead you to conclude that there are no good guys.

President Ronale Reagan named Libyan dictator Muammar Khadafy "the mad dog of the Middle East" for supporting and financing the terrorist attacks on Rome and Vienna airports. After the bombing of the La Belle disco in West Berlin on April 5, Reagan sent bombs to Libya instead of further rhetoric.

West German and American intelligence sources report irrefutable evidence: that the La Belle bombing is linked to Khadahy terrorist teams, paid in increments based on the number killed and the type of kill. However, some blacks indentify with Khadafy because he is an "african of arab descent and a devout muslin," as one Aqil fi Sabil-l-Lah wrote.

I wonder how much of an african could he be to direct his forces to blow up and murder innocent African-American soldiers? The La Belle disco is a known hangout of black soldiers in West Berlin.

While Khadafy calls on blacks in the armed forces to take up his arms against "imperialists Americans, he kills them where they congregate-- because they are Americans.

A good Arab and Muslin? A Jordanian, Ahmed Nawaf Mansour Hawi, confessed to an earlier terrorist bombing in West Berlin on March 29.

This one was organized by the Syrian Embassy in West Berlin. The target:the German-Arab Friendship Society.

Seven innocent Arabs were severely wounded; all narrowly escaped with their lives. The crime of these Arab rfugees was that they were not as radical as their would-be executioners demanded.

Is Reagan a good guy? For all his bluster about the need to eliminate Libya as the financial base for worldwide terrorism, Reagan made no attempt when he bombed Libya to cripple that country's money-making machine: oil. If Khadafy's strength is his money and his money is the source of terrorism, as Reagan argued, it seems that the f-lls would have aimed at the oil fields.

Why? because five U.S. oil companies were still doing business with Khadafy. these companies account for 75 percent of Libya's oil, the country's main export. they pay 92 percent of their income to Khadafy in Taxes; he gets .92 cents of every one dollar the companies earn.

Khadafy's take in 1985: $2 billion. The U.S companies, in turn, declared Khadafy's share a deduction and the U.S taxpayer financed the terrow machine that bombed the Arabs and African-Americans in Berlin.

One of the oil companies that claimed $130 million paid to Khadafy as a tax deduction, W. R. grace & co., paid no federal income tax to the U.S Government--not one red cent. Grace, with $146.9 million in profits, paid more taxes to Khadafy than to the president that blames Khadafy for the death of the Americans.

The U.S companies, "the cash cows" they are called, sell 42 percent of Libya's oil putput of 900,000 barrels a day and 100 milliom barrels last year.

Looka carefully before you embrace "good" Muslims, Arabs, Blacks, Africans, American patriots or so called revolutionaries. To many, if not most of them, dollars are more important than principals. Besides, there are no "good" terrorist

Job Service Information

State of Washington Employment Security Department

By Commissioner Isiah Turner

Economic Development Means More Jobs

In March of this year there were 40,000 more jobs in Washington state than in the same month a year ago, good news for workers in Washington state. The last year has seen total employment expand faster than the number of people in the labor force.

If the economy remains strong this year, I expect the number of people working in this state to top the 2 million mark for the first time. Long-term economic growth means jobs for people in Washington state.

Since the mission of the Employment Security Department is to provide full employment and economic stability, we play an important role in support of overall strategic planning and economic development. We provide labor market information to assist in evaluating the changes that are occurring in the state's economy and recommending actions to stimulate new investments and create jobs. We also provide the trained, qualified workers for those new jobs.

Labor market information contributes directly to economic development by providing vital data in support of industrial recruitment. Employment Security is the leading source of of this information in the state. Our information systems describe the local workforce, the occupations of those already working, as well as the kind of people looking for work and the number currently in training.

With this information, we can identify areas, industries and occupations that are growing or declining and target training and development dollars to localities, companies and workers that will benefit most from these programs.

Our Training Network works directly with business to identify which of the state's training programs can be tailored to meet their workforce needs. Since it began in February, 1985, the network has worked with 80 businesses, representing 3,200 potential jobs.

Of the multitude of job-training programs available in Washington state, many are funded by the Job Training Partnership Act (JTPA) to train low-income persons and unemployed workers. Of the $61 million available for training this year, $4.1 million was specifically targeted to Dislocated Workers who lost their jobs bacause of plant closures or technological changes. These experienced workers are a vital resource for economic development and can be trained through customized classroom or on-the-job training to meet specific needs.

I am confident that the Employment Security Department's efforts combined with other economic development endeavors will produce excellent job opportunities for the workers of Washington state.

How To Choose And Use A Money -Market Fund

Money-market mutual funds are such a familiar part of the American investment scene that it's hard to realize they're only about a decade old. They have assumed an important role in many investors' portfolios -- perhaps too important, given today's environment most during inflationary times. They were created in the mid-1970s, when oil prices, inflation and interest rates were soring. Before they became available, institutional investors and wealthy individuals could ride rising interest rates by buying CDs, which were then offered only in large denominations, while the average investor was limited to the far lower rates paid on savings accounts. Money funds were a true innovation that enabled almost anyone to earn short-term rates close to what large investors were getting.

Many people began using money funds as savings accounts. And as long as interest rates were rising, this was a sensible approach because the securities in money funds were steadily rolled over into new securities paying higher rates.

But during a period of falling rates, money funds work the opposite way. They follow the downward trend of rates closely, yielding investors less and less each month.

For this reason, it no longer makes sense to keep large amounts of cash in money funds. It's particularly unwise to invest your IRA in a money fund. There are many higher-yielding instruments (including corporate and government bond funds, unit investment trusts and income-oriented equity mutual funds) that are often better vehicles for long-term investments like IRAs.

Today, your money fund should serve just two purposes: as a "safe harbor" for your liquid cash reserve for emergencies, and as a "parking place" where you keep the proceeds of securities sales while you investigate new investment opportunities.

The most convenient way to use a money fund is in conjunction with an all-purpose central asset account, such as the Shearson Lehman Brothers Financial Management Account. The cash in such an account that is not invested in other securities is automatically swept into a money fund every day or every week.

Whether your money is associated with a central asset account or not, you must still choose the best type of fund for our needs. There are three basic kinds:

* Government money funds invest primarily (or exclusively) in obligations of the U.S. government and its agencies. Consequently, these funds have virtually no credit risk. They typically pay a bit lower dividend than general-purpose funds.

* General-purpose funds invest primarily in bank CDs and commercial paper issued by major banks and corporations. These funds are slightly riskier than government money funds, but they usually pay higher interest. The dividend is fully taxable at the federal, state and local levels.

* Tax-free funds invest in short-term state and municipal obligations. All the income from a tax-free fund is exempt from federal taxes, and the income from securities issued in your own state usually is exempt from state and local income taxes as well. In recent years, funds investing only in obligations from a single, high-tax state, such as New York or California, have been started. These provide residents of those states with double or triple tax-free income. Tax-free funds are considered a bit riskier than government funds.

Despite these relative risks, it's good to remember that all money funds are extremely safe.

U.S. Senator Robert W. Kasten JR.

WASHINGTON, D.C. -- "THE 159 MEMBER STATES OF THE UNITED NATIONS VOTED AGAINST U.S. INTERESTS IN THE GENERAL ASSEMBLY, LAST YEAR AN AVERAGE OF NEARLY 80 PERCENT OF THE TIME," U.S. SENATOR BOB KASTEN SAID IN ANNOUNCING THE FINDINGS OF THE THIRD ANNUAL "KASTEN REPORT."

Kasten released details of the report, an annual study of U.N. voting patterns done by the U.S. State Department, at a hearing of the Senate Appropriations Subcommittee on Foreign Operations. American Ambassador to the U.N. Vernon Walters testified before Kasten's panel, which focused on the U.S. contribution to the United Nations budget.

The Kasten Report is required by legislation authored by the Wisconsin Republican in 1983. It pays particular attention to the ten issues that the Administration determines to be most critical to U.S. interests.

"Again, in 1985, Israel was our staunchest ally, siding with the U.S. 91.5 percent of the time in the General Assembly," Kasten said. "A number of our NATO allies, the United Kingdom (86.6 percent), West Germany (84.4 percent), France (82.7 percent--up from 72 percent in 1984), Belgium (82.3 percent), and Italy (81.9 percent) all increased their support for the United States, but they were the exceptions."

The Senator noted weak U.S. support from such NATO allies as Turkey and Greece. "Turkey, which received $739 million in U.S. assistance in the current fiscal year, voted against the U.S. more than 60 percent of the time last year It refused to criticize human rights abuses in Iran and supported name-calling attacks against U.S. policy in the Middle East--both key votes according to the State Department," Kasten said.

Kasten said that Greece, while siding with the U.S. in eight of 10 key General Assembly votes last year, gave the United States support on 33 percent of the time in overall general Assembly voting.

The strongest opposition to the United States, in addition to Eastern European nations, came from "the 21-member Arab group that supported U.S. positions only 12.2 percent of the time and African nations, 15.1 percent," he said.

Noting a bright spot, Kasten said "since our liberation of the country, Grenada has become an increasingly dependable friend of the United States at the U.S. In 1983, Grenada opposed the U.S. position in the Generally Assembly more than 80 percent of the time. But in 1984, it supported the U.S. in 60 percent of its votes and raised its level of support to over 70 percent last year

"Egypt, a major U.S. foreign aid recipient, opposed our positon a shocking 85 percent of the time," Kasten reported, noting that many other nations that actively seek U.S. protection and economic assistance "are nowhere in sight when we need them at the U.N.

"The Philippines gave us support on just 22 percent of the votes last year," Kasten said, "while India opposed us 91 percent of the time, Saudi Arabia 86 percent of the time, Zimbabwe 85 percent of the time, Thailand 78 percent of the time, Mozambique more than 94 percent of the time and El Salvador 70 percent of the time."

The Wisconsin Republican pointed out that key General Assembly issues for the U.S. last year included positions taken by the world body on terrorism, the Soviet invasion and continued occupation of Afghanistan, Vietnam's occupation of Cambodia, the Arab-Israeli conflict, apartheid, human rights abuses in several countries and efforts to delete instances of name-calling against various U.S. foreign policy positions.

"After not voting with the United States on a single 'key' General Assembly vote in 1983 or 1984, the Soviet Union and the United States did find one thing to team up on. .their opposition to the U.N.'s biennium budget for 1986 and 87," Kasten added.

"All of us in Congress should pay greater attention to the weak support we receive at the United Nations from many nations that aggressively seek our foreign aid, live under our protection, and enjoy a favorable trade relationship with us " he stressed

Most Camp Grounds To Be Open By Memorial Day

Most of the 34 campgrounds to be operated by the Mt. Baker-Snoqualmie National Forest this summer will be open for public use by Memorial Day weekend. But agency managers are changing the way forest campgrounds are administered because of continuing funding reductions

The result, according to Doug MacWilliams, Forest Supervisor, is that nearly one-third of the campgrounds will operated by volunteers or through concessionaire agreements with private contractors.

In addition, MacWilliams said his agency will continue converting other former campgrounds to permanent primitive sites having few if any facilities. Because of 1986 dollar limitations 15 campgrounds are being converted this spring. Six others will be closed this summer due to lack of funding

"To offer a satisfying camping experience requires that we maintain quality standards in those campgrounds we are able to finance," MacWilliams said. "But in the case of unfunded campgounds, we will not allow the public's outdoor experience and safety to suffer because facilities are run down or maintenance services lacking. Our response to budget cuts will be to close or convert present and former campgrounds to more primitive sites requiring few or no facilities and no overhead costs."

MacWilliams said the forest's recreation budgets have been declining for the past five years. With few exceptions, converted primitive sites will have no toilets, picnic tables or other facilities. The campground conversion process started two years ago when 20 remote and less used campgrounds were reclassified for primitive and dispersed recreation uses. Conversion of 19 others started in 1985 and will be completed by this year.

He said special funding was obtained to operate two campgrounds (Douglas Fir and Silver Fir) and a picnic area (Austin Pass) in the Mt. Bakerr area in anticipation of heavier tourism and camping demands generated from Expo '86 in Vancouver, B.C.

But MacWilliams cautioned that Forest Service recreation dollars will continue to be very tight, and that cooperation will be sought from campers and other forest visitors to police after themselves and pack out their own garbage.

He said Forest Service employees have run out of innovative ways to ease the disappointment of campers who discover some facilities removed and access areas gated shut.

Thirteen of the 34 open campgrounds will charge individual user fees of $5 or $6 per night, with concessionaire campground rates expected to be slightly higher. Facilities vary at fee campgrounds, but water, toilets and refuse collection are included.

Nine other campgrounds will operate as large group rental units available on a reservation basis with fees ranging from $15 to $50. Twelve campgrounds will operate without fees. Some of them will be opened only during heavy use periods on holidays and weekends.

Kentucky Fried Chicken Joins Fund-Raiser

June marks the eighth annual Colonel Sanders Memorial March of Dimes Campaign to raise money to give every child a health start in life by preventing and treating birth defects. The national fund-raising campaign, which has raised nearly 5 million dollars in seven years, was announced today by Ottie Ladd of the Kentucky Fried Chicken store(s) in the Greater Tacoma area.

The month-long campaign kicks off on Memorial Day weekend, May 24-26. Throughout June, store employees will encourage customers to leave their change in special donation canisters to help America's babies. Participating Kentucky Fried Chicken store will donate a minimum of $100 per store to the March of Dimes.

According to Ottie Ladd, Kentucky Fried Chicken wants to do their part locally to help the March of Dimes fight birth defects. Half the funds raised during the campaign will be spent here in the Greater Tacoma area to benefit March of Dimes community programs. The other half supports national research through the Colonel Sanders Memorial Endowment, which provides grants to help fight birth defects.

Funds raised by Kentucky Fried Chicken will be presented to the March of Dimes on Born America, a March of Dimes television event scheduled for June 28-29 on KTZZ TV22.

Northwest Ballet Receives $ 75,000 Grant

ANTIDRUG CAMPAIGN BEGINS IN WASHINGTON: President Reagan greeting Joshua Jakoubek, 8 years old, from Thomson Elementary School at a "just say no" campaign ceremony yesterday at the White House. The slogan "just say no" is used by children's groups around the nation dedicated to fighting illegal drug use among youths. The President, calling his wife, Nancy, "the champ" in battle against drugs, said his Administration was "trying to do everything Government can do" to fight drug trafficking.

meeting with President Reagan about the Saudi arms package.

Despite the decision to give up the Stingers, White House officials and legislators conceded late Tuesday that there still may not be enough votes in the Senate to support the Saudi deal.

Opponents say Saudi Arabia has continued to provide financial support to the Syrian Government and the Palestine Liberation Organization. Senate and House legislators, who voted by wide margins two weeks ago to block the sale, also criticized Saudi Arabia for its condemnation of the United States bombing raid against Libya on April 14.

Ballet

Pacific Northwest Ballet has been awarded $75,000 ($25,000 a year for three years) from the Readers Digest Dance and Theatre Program. The Program is a new project sponsored by the Wallace Funds, established by the co-founders of Readers Digest, DeWitt and Lila Acheson Wallace.

This year, Readers Digest awarded a total of $3 million to 49 dance and theater companies around the nation for creation and production of new works. Of fourteen established dance companies to receive Wallace Funds, Pacific Northwest Ballet is one of only two established dance companies outside of New York to receive a grant of such magnitude. West of Chicago, Pacific Northwest Ballet is the only dance company to receive a grant from the Wallace Funds for more than $5000.

According to George Grune, president of the Wallace Funds and Chairman and CEO of Readers Digest, the aim of the Wallace Funds "is to recognize and reward innovative groups that spark the imagination, stir emotions, and enrich our lives."

The grant is important to Pacific Northwest Ballet in two ways. The first, and most tangible, is the financial support which will enable the Ballet to commission and acquire new ballets over the next three years. The second is the recognition of Pacific Northwest Ballet as a major dance company outside of New York.

"This significant gift from the Wallace Funds is yet additional testimony to Pacific Northwest Ballet's stature as one of the important dance companies in America. We are deeply grateful to the Readers Digest Dance and Theatre Program," stated Arthur Jacobus, President and CEO of Pacific Northwest Ballet
